DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election without traverse of the species of figs. 5-9, claims 1-4 and 6-8, in the reply filed on 9/23/05 has been acknowledged. Claim 5 stands withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 9/23/05.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Where applicant acts as his or her own lexicographer to specifically define a term of a claim contrary to its ordinary meaning, the written description must clearly redefine the claim term and set forth the uncommon definition so as to put one reasonably skilled in the art on notice that the applicant intended to so redefine that claim term. Process Control Corp. v. HydReclaim Corp., 190 F.3d 1350, 1357, 52 USPQ2d 1029, 1033 (Fed. Cir. 1999). The term "slits" in claim 4 is used by the claim to mean "notch", while the accepted meaning is "a straight, narrow cut, opening, or aperture". The term is indefinite because the specification does not clearly redefine the term.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Schwinne (US-3260362). Note insertion portion 9, flat face 6, concentric ribs 3 and 4, and the sequential energy absorbing zones including 2, 5, 7 and 11 which are concentric relative to the center of the device.

Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schwinne (US-3260362) in view of Crawford (US-4657203).

Crawford discloses a similar device in which ribs 26 have "slits"/notches 32, 34, and 36. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to provide the apparatus of Schwinne with "slits"/notches in the ribs as taught by Crawford to store inner windings if present or desired.

Claims 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schwinne (US-3260362) in view of JP 2002-244249 or JP 2002-244249 in view of Schwinne (US-3260362).

JP '249 discloses a roll with protecting/support members 2 in a rectangular parallelepiped housing. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to provide the apparatus of Schwinne in a housing as taught by JP '249 to facilitate handling or it would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to alternatively provide the JP apparatus with protecting/suspension members as taught by Schwinne to more effectively absorb energy.

Claims 1, 7, 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 2002-244249 in view of Schwinne (US-3260362).

JP'249, as advanced above, discloses substantially all the claimed features (see at least figs. 4-6) including concentric ribs 7 and 8 forming a plurality of concentric sequential energy absorbing space zones (such as toward the center). What is not disclosed is for the corners of members 2/6 to be cut. Schwinne has been advanced above. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to have the corners of the members 2/6 cut as taught by Schwinne so that the assembly can be inserted into differently shaped containers such as tubular containers.

Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 2002-244249 in view of Schwinne (US-3260362) as applied to claims 1, 7, 8 above, and further in view of Crawford (US-4657203).

Crawford discloses a similar device in which ribs 26 have "slits"/notches 32, 34, and 36. It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art to provide the apparatus of JP'249 modified as above with "slits"/notches in the ribs as taught by Crawford to store inner windings if present or desired.

Claims 2-3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

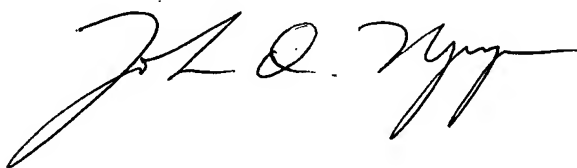

Applicant's arguments filed 10/3/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

As noted above, Schwinne clearly shows concentric ribs 3 and 4 and a plurality of concentric sequential energy zones including 2, 5, 7, and 11.
